And because he's so great, he deserved a really great cake. But cakes take forever. Hours longer than anyone who hasn't tried to make a novelty cake really understands. I don't have the 18 plus hours that a really awesome cake takes. But I still wanted to give him a really nice cake. So I developed a really easy cake that takes less than 4 hours to make. In the world of cake making, it's practically lightning fast. You can add all the additional information you want or just leave it very simple. Materials: 3 layers of cake (it must be a high cake) 2 layers of filling (I used 2 cups of very hot heavy cream, 4 cups of chocolate chips, stir until combined. I also added 10 crushed oreos at the request of a birthday boy) Lots and lots of buttercream, about 4-6 cups (I used 4 sticks of soft, room temperature butter, 2 sticks of vegetable shortening, 1/2 cup heavy cream, 1 lb ground sugar, beat high until well combined) viva paper towel fondant smoother Print and cut these shapes: Batman, Batman Background, Callouts Red, Yellow, Black Fondant (you can also buy white fondant and colour it as needed, it's not hard to do) Alphabet chocolate notes yellow candy melts black ball candy (six I used) step, fry the cakes. Allow to cool completely. Make any fill you intend to use. I like the toffee or pastry cream listed above. You have to freeze it twice. The first ice is called crumb layer or dirty ice because No matter how careful you are, there always seem to be crumbs in the icing layer. Allow it to cool in the fridge for about 20 minutes or until the frosting is set. Add another layer of buttercream and try to smooth out all the bumps as much as you can not have to be perfect, we will smooth it out later. Cool until the freeze is completely set, from 20 minutes to 2 hours. When this is done, place a viva paper towel, smooth side down, on top of the cake. Use fondant smoothie to smooth the rough edges. In Fondant shapes, you can either color the white fondant, use the precolor, or paint the shape when it's cut out. Of course, precolor is easiest, but buying multiple colors can be for a price. Color it yourself, add only a small amount of gel food staining (liquid food dyeing makes the fondant too sticky) and knead until evenly distributed. I'm not a fan of coloring food, but I'm also not a fan of fondant, so that's not a problem, I just don't eat it either way. Roll a piece of fondant the size of a golf ball. I decided to paint this black to give it a shiny apperance. I used the blue fondant I already had. Print this: Batman logo, carefully cut around the symbol. Place the fondant on parchment paper, place the Batman symbol on top of a flat fondant. Cut around the edges with a sharp cutting knife. Remove excess fondant. Paint it black if necessary. Allow to dry and harden slightly, about 15 minutes. Roll a piece of yellow fondant the size of a golf ball. Cut out the Batman background, cut around the edges and place the background on a yellow fondant. Cut around the edges with a sharp cutting knife. Moisten the top of the yellow fondant with a little water with your fingers. Move the black Batman logo to a yellow background. Roll a piece of red fondant. Stop the call-ups and place on the fondant. Cut the shapes with a knife. Add about 1/2 cup of yellow candy smelters to the microwave safe bowl. Microwave high for about 30 seconds, stir and repeat until melted. Add the alphabetical fashions, scrape off the excess with a knife. Cool in the fridge until set, about 5 minutes. Remove from mold. Press the buttercream to add shapes to the cake. Brush the slightly melted candy melt (defrost again in the microwave if necessary) behind the letters. Press them according to the call. Use black ball sticks to form a border at the bottom of the cake. Cool until you are ready to serve.
